

Summer Schools

Serious Fun, Serious Study

Summer schools geared towards building up high school student's college preparation prospects as well as help them develop essential skills are more popular now than ever. Dispelling the traditional notion that summer school was for kids who needed to make up for low grades or lost credits, summer schools these days have become the launching pads for gathering lifelong skills that make students path to universities more focused and rewarding.

More so these days, summer school programs in the US and the UK are gaining tremendous reputation among international students. With the programs' unique approach and design aimed at developing awareness of cultures of different countries, engaging with peers from all over the world, discovering new and interesting academic and personal challenges as well as improving English language and personal etiquette, more and more families and students are opting to spend summer abroad. Recognizing the relevance of such programs, Intelligent Partners is proud to bring access to such programs in the US and UK. Through partnerships with 3 major programs in the US and the UK, Intelligent Partners is making the opportunity of attending such summer school programs a possibility for UAE residents. Currently, with a range of programs geared towards improving English language, developing sports and social skills, and preparation for Ivy League education are available. With the University of Chicago's renowned summer sessions, students get into a highly competitive diverse group aiming at top college admissions after high school. At Cambridge, the Oxbridge programs are offering a wealth of quality courses to choose from aimed at leadership and overall university preparation. Of course there is the world famous Harrow's program as well with the exclusive English language courses, wide travel and visiting opportunities and social events. Special program for all girls summer school is featured this year by the Heathfield program exclusively focused on girls and teaching empowering social skills. Considering the value that a lot of colleges and universities place on participating in such programs, and the level of improvement these programs have been able to achieve, Summer Schools are actually a really worthwhile endeavor.